Some of the information we pulled has only just come to light. For more information, check out the "How do I import from files?" Guide on the next page.Stable correction of a stop codon using an inverted repeat containing template-switch donor. We have exploited an inverted repeat (IR) to correct a stably expressed amber codon in Escherichia coli. A tetracycline-regulated gene containing a tyrosine-tRNA(CUA) misreading codon in the TAG stop codon-containing araE gene was used to construct an inducible expression plasmid (pBAD/CTT-araE-araE-IR-CTT) by inserting an IR between the dicistronic TAG-tRNA(TAG) and the araE-IR-CTT genes. The expression of araE-IR-CTT was examined using the transcriptional fusion assay and western blot analysis. The IR promoted template-switching of the mismatched TAG-tRNA(TAG) to the correct araE-IR-CTT by up to 10-fold. Moreover, the IR also stabilized the mRNA level of the misread tRNA and promoted its translation. When pBAD/CT
