The Thirteenth Amendment (2005) [pdf] - maple-leaves ===== tyingq It's hard to imagine a better modern day example of the people and processes we'd like to see in a just society. In case you are inclined to put yourself in the "they aren't good at democracy" camp, consider this quote from Irving Fisher: "In my judgment, the type of government that, without removing all doubt and doubtful shadows about it, will be the best, will be that form of government where the people have no voice, no vote, no choice but to obey." [~~~ clarkmoody > the people have no voice The people do have a voice. The founding fathers understood that the only way to guarantee freedom was to insist that what was done was based on the consent of the governed, and popular sovereignty was the epitome of freedom. ~~~ eik3_de Regarding the "consent of the governed" bit. If the US was internally ruled based on the consent of the governed, the system would be much, much different. ~~~ karmelapple I don't think you could say the same for much of the rest of the world outside, say, Israel or the majority of British Commonwealth countries. ~~~ eik3_de > I don't think you could say the 3da54e8ca3
