FIFA 22 is released on September 27, and below we have a full breakdown of how it all works. How does HyperMotion Technology work? Much of the following information is taken from the FIFA website, but the summary below will be succinct. HyperMotion Technology allows you to more deeply understand and analyse football (soccer) using motion capture and analysis. Over a whole season, you can use the data on the field to find out the specific player traits that each player is known for. Perhaps the most-significant changes for HyperMotion Technology are in the approach to players' movements. Player models have a fully dynamic body where you can affect the body position of your players by pressing the buttons to show their agility or enhance their pace or power. The player also has unique animations for each movement, like turning and running. Players can now be more intelligent when playing the ball and defending. Improvements have been made in the approach in how to tackle, which we'll get to later. When you flick the player's animation on and off, the player's body moves in the direction you choose. When you press an action button, a particular movement can be executed with a stronger or weaker attack. Simultaneously, you can adjust where the animation is on the field. In other words, you can adjust the player's weight, clothing, kit, or position on the field. You can simulate match conditions, such as different weather or grass type. The New Approach to a Tackle Nigeria striker Obafemi Martins can tackle at the highest level. The new approach to tackles in FIFA 22 uses data from 22 real-life tackles, and you can edit the tackle animation and tackle weight to make the animation more authentic. This includes the ability to adjust the tackle accuracy, which affects how high the ball travels when it's deflected away from the player. The higher the tackle, the more likely the ball will be to be deflected away. It also includes the impact of the tackle. The worse the impact, the more likely a deflected ball goes past the defender. In FIFA 22, there's a drop-down menu with different impact sounds for you to choose from, including sounds from real life players. You can also adjust the angle of the tackle. The higher the angle, the more likely the ball will be played back to the defender.

The most authentic way to experience the thrill and excitement of real-life football. Build a legendary squad, challenge friends in the new Rivals Mode, or create your own team of legendary players. COMMENTS Nice information you have given here. It helps a lot. Author: admin [ May 12, 2013, 10:13 AM ] Post subject: Re: FIFA 22 - New Modes and Details Wow, I only read part 1 of this but from what I've read so far, this is amazing. I wouldn't expect anything less from EA and I'm very excited for this! Author: sainfre [ May 12, 2013, 10:26 AM ] Post subject: Re: FIFA 22 - New Modes and Details thats good to hear! i was very excited when i read it on here, but not anymore Author: sbmn [ May 12, 2013, 10:50 AM ] Post subject: Re: FIFA 22 - New Modes and Details Yup, can't wait for the release. When I play FIFA, I'm almost always in Career mode. Author: adrianp [ May 12, 2013, 10:54 AM ] Post subject: Re: FIFA 22 - New Modes and Details I'll definitely pick it up then, but mostly I'm more into Soccernomics, especially in FIFA. Anyone here done Soccernomics? Author: Dr_W_C_D [ May 12, 2013, 11:15 AM ] Post subject: Re: FIFA 22 - New Modes and Details I can't wait for FIFA 22. Can't wait to play away from the Xbox, but I am looking forward to the new real player motion engine as well. Expect a lot of the action to look a lot better and smoother. Author: oohblue89 [ May 12, 2013, 11:21 AM ] Post subject: Re: FIFA 22 - New Modes and Details Definitely looking forward to this. Have been playing FIFA since version 1.6 was released and looking forward to seeing how the new features will change how I play. The new engine sounds very promising and from what I read it looks like they will be making a lot of improvements to the ball handling and animation in general. It sounds like

What's new:

- In-Play Camera— Enjoy a unique in-game perspective as you use the new Pro-Xtion you'll collect and use in FIFA 22.
- Guard Impact on Players— You can now have a small influence on defenders by letting loose some custom animations on them and letting them get a late block on the ball. This is perfect for initiating counterattacks or taking a shot on goal when moving laterally.
- Ball Physics— Ball physics have been improved in FIFA 22, creating a much more realistic basketball experience than we have in the past. Now there's more swerve off the trajectory of a full-length game ball.
- Referee Animation FX— Now you can make your referee jump up and down, or go nuts and attack the ball.
- Scoring Impact on Ball— Now your goalie has more mental strength after you score, as he's able to avoid passing the ball to your midfielders.
- Many Other Unannounced and Localized Gameplay Fixes.
