McDonald's has apologized after mistakenly using a photo of a nearly naked woman on an advertising campaign for its new Big Mac snack offering. The fast food giant apologized on Thursday after the image appeared on more than 1,000 posters advertising the new Big Mac snack. The ads showing the image of the woman, which has been described as "a little bit nude" but covered up with a black and white patterned scarf, were replaced with original ads soon after they went up, The Guardian reports. McDonald's said it was "very sorry" for the mistake. "We have removed the campaign posters and apologise for the unintentional publication of this image," a McDonald's spokesperson told the Guardian. The Big Mac sandwich is known for its list of ingredients, which includes two all-beef patties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles, onions, and special sauce, all on a sesame seed bun. The Big Mac sandwich launched in the United States in 1965 and has since become an iconic American fast food item. The Big Mac has become part of popular culture and branded clothing, with the addition of "Big Mac sauce" on the ice cream flavor M&Ms.// Copyright 2009 The Go Authors. → - Unintelligible for most people, this confirms the existence of the red material. Researcher ... Sho-sho-who? It took me about 3 years to clear this video, but it's okay! I don't mind seeing this again, and again, and again. I come back to this video periodically, to remind myself of how simple this is. Remove three elements (water, stone, candle) and watch everything grow. Energy performs random patterns. If you like this you might want to look at my most recent video, which contains some of the same footage: Sho-sho-who??? To avoid / ignore the process completely, you only need to cut off the portion of the candle that will burn down. Or add a bigger candle. For example, a semi empty plastic tub set on the table will produce strange lights for ~2 minutes. It has to do with perspective and the curvature of the room. You don't need a 100% budget to experiment. *****
